NOTICE.

Just a few lines to my customers and friends: I want to state right here that we are doing all we can at all times to give the best service we can but unless we have the help of our milk customers in cleaning and setting out bottles each night, it makes it very hard on us, as it is expensive to have so much money invested in bottles and there is no one that will replace the expense of any business until they experience it.

In spite of the tight times of getting money, our expenses are getting higher, as bottles and cans have advanced, caps 50 per cent, bottles 20 per cent and gasoline about 20 per cent, although we are retelling milk every day, rain or shine, at the same prices as before the World War.

Now, there is no business that can continue to run always losing money. Hoping you will all consider what we have said and help us in our expense as it will benefit each of us.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting more in the future, yours truly,
AKINS DAIRY.

TEA FOR MISS BRADLEY.
Mrs. W. J. Gorman Neville entertained at tea Friday afternoon at her lovely home on South Main street, in honor of Miss Blanche Bradley, the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Cobb.

Miss Bradley has spent the past four years in Miss Neville's household, in Hawaii, China, and this tea was in the way of a welcome home after a prolonged absence.

The spacious living room and library were thrown together and adorned with flowers filled with Lady Huntington orchids in the houses and her charming honor guest received. In the dining room the prettily appointed tea table was covered with a hand made Italian lace cover and had as the central decoration a silver basket holding single purple iris with its foliage.

During the afternoon Miss Bradley exhibited many beautiful and interesting souvenirs of the "Flowery Kingdom."

A merry contest on China was enjoyed. Mrs. Neville was assisted in entertaining by Miss Nellie and Edna Cobb, nieces of the honoree.

One of the pleasant features of the afternoon was the presence of Mrs. Bradley, and the many friends accorded her and her daughter a very cordial welcome. Thrift friends of the honoree were guests.

MRS. J. H. BRETT.

After an illness of about two weeks, Mrs. J. H. Brett died on Monday at the local sanatorium, following an operation for a serious malady. The announcement of her death came as a sorrowful surprise to her many friends, few of whom were aware of the seriousness of her condition.

Interment was in East Side cemetery Tuesday afternoon, following services at 5 o'clock at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. T. M. Christian. There was a large concourse of friends present and the floral tributes were most expressive of the esteem in which the good woman was held. Mr. and Mrs. Brett came to Statesboro fifteen years or more ago, since which time they have won a high place in the public esteem. As a worker in the Presbyterian church, of which she was a member, Mrs. Brett had been most of the years of her life.

Her demise is a deep loss to all her friends, and she will be particularly missed in her church and social activities.

Resides her husband, deceased is survived by four children. Her home before coming here was at Cedar town, Ga.

LESSONS TAUGHT BY LATE WORLD WAR

(The following paper, which was recently read before the Laurens County School Improvement Club, was prepared by a lady who was formerly a resident of Statesboro, Mrs. W. B. Martin.)

Thrift is good management of the business of living.

The great war taught us lessons about the importance of thrift to nation. The enormous expenses of the war were paid, and the armies and civilian population of the country, at war were fed, very largely by the combined small savings of our people.

Nearly 20 million people contributed to the fourth liberty loan which almost seven billion dollars were raised, an average of about $350 for each contributor.

The provisioning of our armies and of the needy people of Europe was made possible by the saving in American homes of slices of bread, of teaspoonsful of sugar, of small portions of meat and fat.

Thrift, however, is not merely a war necessity. The time when thrift shall not be needed will never come. It is only by thrift that the individual may in some measure repay others for the care he himself receives during dependent childhood, and provide during his productive years for the "rainy days" of old age.

The thrifty citizen inspires confidence of the community. Thrift is often confused with stinginess and selfishness. On the contrary, it is a habit of generosity and service possible. Thrift means providing for the future. Every man must practice it and every man must have the chance to practice it. It is a right as well as a duty.

Before the war it was said that four-fifths of the wage earners of our country received less than $750 a year for their labor. Under these circumstances thrift is the strictest necessity.

Thrift is shown in earning, in spending, in saving and in investing. It involves making a choice between the satisfaction of present wants and the sacrifice of present enjoyment, for the sake of greater satisfaction and service in the future. Every time we spend a nickel or a dollar we make a choice. We choose to spend or not to spend. How shall we spend?

A lawyer in a small country town reports that in the month he made out the necessary papers to enable seventy-five men to mortgage their homes to buy automobiles. It is a well known fact that during the war our country bought the most expensive cars of the world. It is said one man, a wage earner, bought two planes in one season.

People, especially young people, need a certain amount of sweets, but when we know that the candy cost of people of the United States amounts to $400,000,000 a year, that this is almost as much as the total amount spent on education; that it is almost double the amount used to keep Belgium supplied with food for a year, during the war or that it will buy 800 million bushels of corn at 50c per bushel, we can well think twice before we spend too much money on candy.

The following lessons in buying are given as a test:

Do I need it?

Do I need something else now?

Will it pay for itself in the end?

Do I injure or help the community in buying this?

Wise expenditures depend not only upon knowledge of prices and qualities, but also upon good management.

One thing that has been the means of lifting many individuals and families out of financial difficulties and enabling them to lay by as a saving a portion of their income, however small the latter may be, is the budget system which means the apportionment of expenditures according to a plan laid out in advance. No budget can apply in all families alike, for an example:

Home rent, taxes and insurance, 25 per cent.

Food, fire and table expenses, 30 per cent.

Clothing, shoes, etc., 13 per cent.

Hire for servants, laundry, telephone, 10 per cent.

Church expenses, books, amusements, 10 per cent.

Savings, 10 per cent.

The department of agriculture has shown that the waste of a half cup of milk daily by each of the 20 million families in the United States would equal in a year the total production of 400 thousand cows, that one ounce of meat or fat saved daily would in a year mean 875 thousand steers or a million hogs.

There are many opportunities for young people to invest. The different kinds of boys and girls clubs. Savings may be deposited in a bank where small deposits pay compounded interest. In 1910 congress established the post office savings bank. The purchase of liberty bonds or saving stamps is both a good and patriotic investment.

As a nation we may be thrifty or unthrifty in the use of our resources. But we can hardly expect thrift to become a national characteristic unless it becomes a personal habit.

What The Good Roads Tave Meant To Us

The roads we have traveled in a radius of 25 miles of Statesboro with our three new trucks to sell Coca-Cola with are in such better shape that we want to take this opportunity to tell THE PUBLIC what they have meant to us.

Seven years ago we began using the roads of Bulloch county and the roads then were so much inferior than they are today that it is worth noting. Then it was bog and sand all the time with some clay roads, plenty of hills as nature constructed them, plenty of bridges that particular mules and horses refused to cross.

Today there is such a great difference that we are compelled to stop and marvel. It is because of auto, progressiveness, the desire for good roads, or for mechanical reasons that we have, and are having built better roads. We believe that they should build them much better still because of economy.

The economical reason is the only one that we care to call the attention of THE PUBLIC to.

In the year 1920 we broke about $250.00 worth of TRUCK springs alone.

In the years 1921 and 1922 only one top leaf of ONE SPRING. What good roads have meant to us, words and figures cannot express, and we feel justified in saying:

THAT WE SHOULD AND MUST HAVE GOOD ROADS.

Sincerely,

THIS HEN ADMANISHES ALLEN "DRINK LESS"

LEAVES MESSAGE WRITTEN ON AN EGG WHICH CAUSES MUCH EXCEMENT.

Lewis Allen, a young farmer living north of Statesboro, was displaying in Statesboro Monday, with considerable excitement, a hen egg which he had found in a nest on his premises bearing the inscription "DRINK LESS." These words were stamped perfectly plain and in capital letters, one word beneath the other, covering almost one side of the egg. The letters were slightly raised, though flat and smooth. That they had not been written with some sort of paste was evident from the fact that the pores of the shell were natural. It seemed however, that the surface of the shell about the letters were slightly whiter than the

NEW UNION STATION NOT NOW IN PROSPECT

LOCAL RAIL OFFICIALS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE PROPOSITION JUST YET.

Spasmodically and periodically somebody in Statesboro gets slightly "hot up" over the proposition of a new union passenger depot into which all our incoming trains would dump their volume of human freight, and from which they may carry the hordes of travelers who do not patronize Ford and automobiles. It has been ever been that way, and will possibly continue that way for some time to come.

The latest revival of this union station enthusiasm was brought about through the destruction of the S. & S. railroad property, including both passenger and freight terminals, "fire last Thursday afternoon. Recalling that the reason we had some building done in the immediate future, the blaze had not been extinguished before the destruction. Whatever the source of all this conflicting wisdom, one thing is certain: The Bulloch county is producing food to eat if not for thought.

At the Monday meeting of the Statesboro Advertising Club, the matter was introduced in a formal way. D. C. Smith, superintendent of the Savannah & Statesboro Railroad, an enthusiastic member of the Advertising Club, was called upon to express himself in the premises. In a few minutes he had outlined a plan for the building of a new passenger station, and he declared that it was not feasible, for the reason there was not connection of schedules nor exchange of passenger traffic between the roads entering Statesboro; it would cost more to each road to maintain a union passenger station than under the present system, since their freight and passenger business is now looked after for the same expense it would cost to handle each separately; to build a structure such as would be required for joint use would entail an immediate expenditure which his road could not afford; and, lastly, even if he and his road favored the movement, he was sure the other road would not be benefited by it, and therefore would not agree to it.

He recognized the spirit of progress which actuated the members of the club; he understood that the suggestion was prompted by a thought that good might come to the city; he was not peeved that his friends and the friends of his road should urge this upon him, but he felt that any state would have gained the concluding argument in the case.

The First District A. & M. school won first place and gold medals in declamation, recitation and art. Mr. Luther Zeigler won the declamation, Miss Marguerite Mitcham won the recitation and art medals. Winning in second and third places gave the final rank of second in the meet.

The school feels something of pride in this showing in view of the very few contestants that its financial resources would permit it to enter. Those making the trip were Luther Zeigler, Powell Quattok, Misses Marguerite Mitcham, Susie Snooks and Ouida Mathias. The party was in charge of the principal of the school, Prof. Hollis.

MRS. R. L. PASCHAL.
Mrs. R. L. Paschal died this morning, following an illness of three weeks. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Methodist church and interment will be in East Side cemetery.

Deceased is survived by her husband and one son, Shelton Paschal. The young man has been a student at Tech in Atlanta, from where he was called yesterday on account of the sudden sinking of his mother.

For the past twelve years Mrs. Paschal has been in charge of the Jaekel Hotel, and is widely known and popular with the traveling public. Before coming to Statesboro she was engaged in hotel business at Quincy, Fla.

We have secured the services of an Expert Soda Man to look after your wants at our Sanitary Fountain. Give him a call. Franklin Drug Co.

WINS AT SPRINGFIELD.
First honor was brought to Statesboro High school through Miss Will Helen Edger, who represented the school in Springfield last Friday. At the same time Edger Bodenbach won second in boys' relay writing and Miss Aline Cone third in expression.

A large number of Statesboro people attended the meet.

JURY FINDS CHANCE GUILTY OF MURDER

JENKINS COUNTY SLAYER CONVICTED BY JURY IN BULLOCH SUPERIOR COURT.

"We the jury find the defendant, R. H. Chance, guilty, and recommend him to the mercy of the court."

These were the words with which the Bulloch county jury yesterday stamped the verdict of murder upon R. H. Chance, of Jenkins county, on trial for the killing of Watson Allen, also of that county. Charged jointly with Chance were his son, Roscoe Chance, his step-brother, W. R. Lewis, and his two nephews, Sidney and Gary Rowe.

The state having elected to sever the defendants and put R. H. Chance first on trial, the other four defendants are yet to be tried. According to the present plan, one or more of the defendants will be placed on trial Monday. Whether the trial will be jointly or separately, depends upon the prosecution, both of the defense and the prosecution. By agreement they may be tried together. Either has the right to demand severance. In the event of their severance, the state has the right to designate which shall be first tried.

The jury trying the case against R. H. Chance consisted of A. L. Brannen, Wiley Mikell, Remer C. Mikell, Brooks Mikell, J. Oswald Akins, Linton Akins, C. M. Anderson, W. D. Anderson, W. L. Ringwald, E. Zetterow and Willis A. Waters. The last named was foreman of the jury.

Attorneys connected with the case were Solicitor General A. S. Anderson and J. A. Dixon, of Millen, R. E. Moore, of Statesboro, and H. A. Boykin, of Sylvania. For the prosecution, Willis Woodrum, C. G. DeLoach and E. G. Weather, of Millen, E. K. Overstreet, of Sylvania, and Anderson and Jones, of Statesboro, for the defense.

The trial of the case began Monday morning. Seventy-nine jurors had been summoned for the trial, and fifty-eight of that number answered to the call upon the convening of the court. Fifty-odd of those were tested as to their competency to serve before the jury of twelve was completed. More than a dozen disqualified as being opposed to capital punishment. Thirty-odd witnesses were summoned by each side and answered in court to the calling of their names. Only about half the witnesses for the state were ever placed on the stand, and the defense did not introduce a single one in the afternoon. Counting begins at once following their closing, and within a few minutes news is being had in Statesboro as to the progress of the court. In Statesboro the polls cannot close till 6 o'clock.

Objection to the resolution was made that at most of the county voting places there is absolutely no way to enforce secrecy in the counting. The polling places are open houses, and interested persons are able to crowd inside or stand at the door, and widows and check the votes as they are counted. It was further argued that correct information as to returns is safer and fairer to all parties than fake returns, and that if reliable information is not out, false information will be broadcast. It is a matter, anyhow, that is as fair to one as another, and a special injury can come from an open and fair announcement of the results as soon as they are known.

The resolution, however, does not permit the beginning of the count and the giving out of figures at any time before the polls at that precinct have closed.

Chance and his associates are charged with the murder of Watson Allen on Christmas day as result of a dispute over a road. Allen was slain at his home in Jenkins county. The defendants admit the killing, but plead self-defense from trying the case.

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I am a candidate for re-election to one of the places of county commissioner in the May primary. If elected, I hope to be able to do some good in our road building program that within a short time every man, whether on a main road or a cross road, will have such roads for his convenience as will be a delight to us all. I call your attention to the fact that as your commissioner I have already reduced road taxes from $5.00 in 1920 to $4.00 in 1921, and I here state there will be a substantial reduction in your ad valorem taxes.

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I desire to call attention to the improvement in roads for the past year and a half, which was attained even under the lower rate of taxation. It is upon these grounds that I am asking your support and influence in my present race, and I will appreciate your help.

Kennedy Issues Statement To the Voters of Bulloch

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I and my friends in the different parts of the county are soliciting your votes and active support of my candidacy for one of the places on the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Bulloch county in the Democratic primary to be held May 10th, on the following grounds:

1. Financial.—Not due to any mismanagement by former officials, but to a general condition over which they had no control, Bulloch county owed and we were compelled to pay out of 1920 taxes $33,000, and $14,174 interest, a total of $47,174 borrowed money, and $10,000 in open accounts, making a total indebtedness of $57,174. Today we do not owe a dollar of borrowed money and only the small sum of about $1,500 on open accounts, the greater part of which is not due. We have to the credit of the county in the First National Bank of Statesboro $21,778.03. The tax collector's report shows that the county's part of the 1921 tax collections is $22,292.27, a good portion of which is collectible and which will be collected from time to time. This financial showing was brought about by an economical business administration and not by a raise in tax rates. If you will examine your tax receipts you will find that you paid $5.00 in 1920 and $4.00 in 1921. Your county tax receipt will show that you paid approximately the same amount in these two years, but if you will notice closely you will see $1 mill, for county-wide school tax in 1921 which you did not pay in 1920, therefore you must admit that had not the five mills county-wide school tax been added last year by the state, you would have had a reduction of 5 mills in your state and county taxes. Our county rate being 12 mills, state 5 mills, and county 5 mills, making a total of 22 mills. This is a much higher tax rate than we want, and we are hoping to get it reduced, but I ask you to compare it with any other county in the state. I here promise you that, with the consent of the other two members of the present board we will reduce your road tax from $4.00 to $3.00 per year this fall. This is back to pre-war prices, and affects the man who possibly needs it most. We cannot tell about the ad valorem tax rate until the tax digest is made up, but it is possible we will pull it down. Four your information I quote below a copy of an order I put on the minutes June 1, 1921, when we were operating under the one-commissioner plan; this reduction hit every department from your county commissioner to the court house janitor:

"Believing that it is time for everything to get a new, as possible to pre-war prices, it is ordered that the pay-roll of each department of the county be reduced, the county commissioner heading the list with a reduction of 15 per cent of his salary. All reductions to begin July 1, 1921."

2. Buying Supplies.—Our method of buying supplies, shoes, lumber, etc., has been the same as employed by all big successful firms or corporations. Traveling men call on your county commissioner's office as regularly as they call on the merchants of Statesboro and quote the same wholesale prices they give the merchants. Our reputation and credit is well established and the business world is anxious to sell us anything in their line. I try to keep myself posted and buy where we get the best prices, considering quality of course. In regard to bridge building, if the bill is any size at all I figure with every saw mill man near where the lumber is to be used. We have at present three different mill men figuring on the bill of lumber for the Oliver bridge, and have just completed a job on Dover bridge of about 25,000 feet, bought from Mr. Felix Parrish at $18.50 per 1,000 delivered at the bridge, he having a haul of five or six miles.

The advantage of buying everything as we are now doing in the open market rather than on advertised competitive bids is this: Practically our entire food and feed supplies are bought from the farmers of the county, who gladly sell to us for cash their produce at a less price than they are offered by the merchants in trade. You will see the magnitude of this business when I tell you it takes about 12 bushels of corn, 250 pounds of hay, 1 bushel of meal, 75 to 100 pounds of meat, and 25 pounds of peas a day. In the 16 months I have been buying for the county, there has been but one car of hay, when none could be found in the county last summer, and two minimum cars (one each spring) of sweet feed to tonic up and shed off the mules, bought outside of the county. There has not been a single bushel of western shipped corn used at the county. I buy meat for good and bad, from 7 to 8 bushels per week from Mr. John Rushing at 65 cents per bushel delivered at the camp. The corn and meat are bought from the farmers, mostly in small lots, meat at 11 and 12 cents per pound and corn at 45 to 50 cents a bushel. If you advertised for bids, the most of this money would leave the county, because the average farmer never has an amount for sale large enough to supply the camp as much as thirty or forty cents' worth of meat. The corn and meat I have bought from Hap Brothers, Macon, Ga., after having looked over samples and compared prices of two other manufacturers. After examining the samples and comparing the prices of four shoe manufacturers I am buying from M. C. Kiser & Co., Atlanta, Ga., the best shoe I ever saw for the money. These invoices and goods I will be glad to show any taxpayer and let him be the judge.

3. Financial Reports Published Monthly.—We have not deemed it necessary to go to this expense since each grand jury report, making an itemized report from an examining book committee. This committee is composed of from two to three good accountants who go into detail and their report becomes a part of the grand jury presentations. This report will no doubt be published in this week's paper and I ask you to study it carefully and you will learn a great deal about your county affairs.

4. Road Building.—We now have in the county approximately 100 miles of first-class sand-clay roads, and by the able assistance of my two colleagues, Mr. T. F. Lee and Mr. Cecil Gay, we have been able to get the State Highway Department to take over about 60 miles of them for maintenance without any cost to the county. In this way we get our auto tag tax returned to us. The roads taken over are the Moore road, Metter road and Savannah road. The foreman of this maintenance crew with headquarters in Statesboro is a Bulloch county boy, Mr. Willie Brannan.

5. The Jenks Bridge Route.—I, as your county commissioner, last year used my influence with the State Highway Department in getting them to adopt the Jenks bridge route for the reason that it accommodated such a vast majority, possibly 95 per cent, of the taxpayers of Bulloch county, and that it added more Bulloch county mileage to the state system, and also shortened by approximately three miles the distance from the Pineora and Jenks bridge fork to Savannah. This matter has been definitely settled as is indicated by the following telegram:

Atlanta, Ga., April 29, 1922.
R. J. Kennedy, Chm'n.,
Bulloch County Commissioners:
The State Highway Board in session today approved location, Route 26, via Jenks bridge.

H. G. SPARK,
Sec'y. State Highway Board.
If my record as reviewed above meets your approval I will appreciate your support in the approaching primary.

Respectfully,
R. J. KENNEDY.

NEW "COLD" LIGHT IS BEING PERFECTED

"LUCIFERIN," A NEW LIGHT, HEATLESS AND PERMANENT, DISCOVERED BY SCIENTIST.

Princeton, N. J., April 29.—The dream of an era of perpetual illumination was seen by scientists today in an announcement by Professor E. Newton Harvey, of Princeton university, that he had developed a continuous cold light, called "Luciferin."

This is a step which science regards as equal in importance to invention of wireless, the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, airplane, automobile and other modern devices. Continuous cold light eventually will do away with all forms of artificial illumination, according to belief of scientists. It will be possible for a man to carry a bottle of light in his pocket. Permanent globes of light will be suspended in the streets, in public building, and in residences.

Just at present, of course, the new discovery has not reached anywhere near that stage of development. Exhibited by Professor Harvey it has the appearance of a small blue flame flickering in water in a flask. However, it is possible to read the faint glow. It is just about in the stage of development now, that the photograph was when it gave forth a faint scratchy sound, and the movies were in the days when they were jumpy blurs, hard on the eyes.

The new substance burns blue, with a cold blue light. Professor Harvey calls it a protein which has succeeded in isolating, after eight years, experimenting from bacteria, fungi and insects.

Once he had succeeded in isolating the "Luciferin," Professor Harvey was confronted with the problem of making it permanent. It would glow for a while, then flicker out. This was because it burned only so long as oxygen was applied to it, and the oxygen also had the effect of destroying it. Now Professor Harvey has perfected a chemical process whereby oxygen is separated from the Luciferin immediately after the contact which produces the light, and then joins with it again. This produces continuous light rays, without wearing out the Luciferin. In its present stage of development, however, the new light glows dimmer and dimmer over a considerable period of time, but fades so slowly that the change is scarcely noticeable.

This is overcome by occasionally adding small quantities of Luciferin. Further experiments are expected to result in a method of automatically replenishing the Luciferin, or of making the Luciferin replenish itself.

Professor Harvey's experiments started with fire flies and other insects which give forth light. However, he took his greatest step when in Japan he discovered a shell fish, the size of a flea which radiated a blue glow. Millions of these made the sea blaze like fire. He obtained a quantity of these crustaceans and used them in further experiments which lead to the isolation of Luciferin. Material for the manufacture of Luciferin is being shipped to Professor Harvey in the shape of crustaceans. Each of these tiny dried shell fish gives off one estimated at one-thousandth of a candle-power.

By Professor Harvey's process, these tiny objects are converted into Luciferin. The supply of raw material is unlimited, he said. The sea contains billions of the luminous shell fish.

Scientists have been working on the problem of continuous cold light for many years. There have been several premature announcements that it has been perfected. Professor Harvey's experiments were crowned with success only when he discovered the process of continuously oxidizing the Luciferin without killing it by the action of the oxygen. It is far from ready for commercial purposes, yet, Professor Harvey says. There may be years of experiment before it can be put into practical use.

As I am interested in my farm and water mill, I have decided not to make the race for road commissioner. I thank my friends for the hearty support promised me well in the race.

Yours truly,
R. MALLARD.

SUB CHASERS USED TO TRANSPORT LIQUOR

OFFICIALS ARE AFTER MEN WHO ARE POSING AS NAVAL OFFICERS.

New York, April 24.—Custom officials announced today that they were working to smash a bootlegging ring which they charged had mobilized a fleet of former submarine-chasers, to combat the creation of America's "dry navy."

The federal agents are working on the theory that these swift craft that once pursued German U-boats and were sold after the war, now are posing as naval vessels, and commanded by officers of the uniform of the United States already have succeeded in running $3,000,000 worth of rum into the United States from Bermuda and Havana.

The announcement of the discovery of the alleged smuggling scheme was made after former submarine-chaser 101, rechristened the Fides, had been taken in New York harbor by a police boat and customs launch. Customs men claimed they had found aboard her numerous charts with marked landings along the Atlantic coast and Hudson river. No liquor was found aboard her and the crew told a hair-raising tale of having had their cargo plundered by pirates off the Long Island coast yesterday.

The ex-chaser, said to bear British registry was held on a technical charge that she left Bermuda, without clearance papers. Her captain, who gave his name as "John Kelly," and his crew of seven, were taken to the custom house for a severe grilling. After the examination, Assistant United States Attorney Falk said:

"Kelly wore the uniform of a United States naval officer. We have not as yet made any charges against captain Kelly and the crew. It is understood that the Fides carried 2,100 cases of Scotch whiskey from Bermuda and that is what we want to find out. The vessel failed to show on her manifest any cargo and after questioning by custom agents, it was decided to take her into port and question the crew."

Federal agents, who said they believed the name "John Kelly" fictitious and that the captain's real name was M. Stanley Clark of Brooklyn, intimated that there was a possibility that there might be brought against her captain a charge of wearing an officer's uniform illegally. "Kelly," who claimed at one time to have served in the United States navy, denied he was wearing a naval uniform.

"All I had was a cap that resembled an officer's head piece," he told reporters.

Kelly claimed to have been taking liquor to Montreal for a Bermuda wine merchant who owned the craft, when pirates on another chaser stole his cargo and manifest. But customs officials claimed to have detected points at which the tale, as related by different members of the crew, did not give. Incidentally one of the crew, Ray Palmer, was alleged to be carrying I. W. W. literature.

Falk quoted the version of Chief Engineer William Lockwood as follows:

"We were all below. This was about 6 o'clock. A bell was given us to stop and we stalled the engine. Next thing we knew, a gang of men, all unmasked, swarmed down on us, and pointing revolvers at us backed us into a small compartment in the engine room and told us to be quiet.

Half an hour later, according to Lockwood, a seaman ventured above and saw Kelly tied to the mast. Lockwood claimed to have untied the knot, himself, the liquor was gone.

Among the papers found in the captain's possession was a recommendation from his commanding officer, stated he served in 1919 as an ensign "Northern Pacific and as executive officer on submarine-chaser 90."

HENDRIX IN RACE TO SUCCESSFUL FINISH

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
In view of the changes that have recently come about through the withdrawal of one of the candidates for county commissioner, I am reminded that there may be some confusion in the minds of the voters at the last as to who is running and who is not. I want to most positively assure my friends that I am in the race to the finish, and have every reasonable hope of being chosen as one of the three members of the board of commissioners. Do not be deceived as to this—I am in to stay and in to win. I shall appreciate the support of every voter at the polls on the day of the primary.

"WHERE IT WILL BE SEEN"

Our advertising friends frequently bring in their little advertisements and leave them with the request that they be placed on the front page "or where it will be seen."

That expression is a common one, and leave, the inference that there might be some place in our columns where an advertisement would not be read. Those who entertain any such impression are dead wrong. To be sure there are some things in the paper which are more inclined to attract, and therefore are seen first. They are items of news or social mention, or something which has an appeal for the average reader. If an advertisement was placed in the exact spot occupied by this item, the reader would jump the advertisement for the time being and search for the other thing in which he was interested. He would finally come back to the advertisement, however, and its results would be as sure and as prompt as if he had seen it first.

The point we are making is that there is no place in the paper where it is safe to put an advertisement if you do not wish it to be "seen." Proof of this is brought to us continually. A late instance is just now in mind. On April 20th the Statesboro Produce Co. inserted a 4-line advertisement offering to pay 20 cents per pound for hens "all this week." The advertisement was directed to appear one time and was so marked. By an oversight the printer stuck the little advertisement in between two large advertisements on a back page of the issue of April 27th. The paper went out into the country Friday without our attention having been directed to the matter, and without the knowledge of the Statesboro Produce Co. In the meantime the price of hens had dropped.

Saturday afternoon our friends of the Produce Co. called up to know if we had wrongly advertised they were paying 20 cents for hens. We assured them we had not so advertised. In a pair of minutes there were two countrymen, from widely different sections of the county, in our office ready to point out the advertisement. They had seen it and had not noticed that it bore date of the week preceding. They wanted 20 cents per pound for their hens, which they believed they had a right to expect.

And a little four-line advertisement in a secluded part of the paper had brought all this confusion to the Statesboro Produce Co. They were embarrassed for the time being. The error was made clear and the matter was amicably adjusted. It was simply an oversight of the printer, who neglected to cancel the little advertisement at its expiration. He "had put it where it was seen." There is no place in this paper where an advertisement will not be seen.

FAITH IN HENS.

The common barnyard hen is worthy of every confidence. One has never been known to wittingly disseminate an untruth, to betray a trust, or to fail in the performance of an obligation.

The mission of the hen is to lay eggs and convert them into young chickens. If left to follow her own natural inclination she will attend strictly to her own proper business of laying and setting. We doubt, indeed, if any hen has ever been known to venture out of her realm. There have been many travesties committed upon innocent victims, but none less justifiable than the recent studied attempt to bring ridicule upon the hens throughout the state. Recently there was published a statement in the daily newspapers purporting to be the recital of an unusual incident in Colquitt county. It was alleged that a hen had laid an egg upon which a scriptural prophecy was inscribed in raised letters. The newspaper reporter spoke of it in serious tones, and some persons are said to have accepted the incident as truth.

In Bulloch county during the present week there have been reported three similar incidents in which distinctly different but intelligent sentences were written. Some persons are said to be credulous enough to believe that some hen laid the eggs with these inscriptions already written upon them.

Somebody is working a hoax. Hens are not ever given to such antics. There would be no harm in it, but they just don't. They know their mission in life, and they adhere to it. They are solemn and steady, though cheerful and helpful. If they gave advice, it might be "drink less," but their advice is given by example and not by precept. If they attended to their own affairs and attempt no frivolity of conduct. The man or woman who is writing all these inscriptions on eggs and passing them off as the work of hens, is working a deception on somebody and subjecting the hens to public ridicule.

PEANUT-FED HOGS
PRODUCE SOFT PORKANIMALS FED EXCLUSIVELY ON PEANUTS CANNOT BE MADE FIRM.

In Georgia and other Southern states many hogs are fattened on peanuts and peanut pasture. It has been demonstrated by a number of experiment stations that good and cheap gains can be made by using peanuts in a ration. However, when the ration is made up entirely with peanuts a soft and undesirable carcass is produced. Experiments conducted by the Georgia Experiment Station, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the experiment stations of Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina during the last three years have shown conclusively that when hogs started at a weight of 100 pounds, are fed on peanuts in dry lots or grazed in the field for a period of 60 days or more a soft carcass is produced, and that it is impossible to produce a hard carcass by feeding corn and tankage or corn and cottonseed meal to these soft hogs for a subsequent period of 60 days or less.

Packers have discriminated against soft hogs for some time and have not paid the Southern farmers as much for peanut-fed hogs as for hogs fed on feeds which produce a harder carcass. The markets seem to demand hard hogs and are paying more for them. However, there is a market for soft hogs and if the farmer, in the peanut sections can fatten hogs profitably on peanuts and allow the discrimination there is no reason for discouraging the production of soft pork.

The Georgia Experiment Station and other Southern experiment stations are working co-operatively with the U. S. department of agriculture in trying to determine to what extent peanuts may be used in a ration without producing soft hogs. Work is being done also towards finding a method of hardening hogs that have been made soft by this feed.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS

A DELIGHT TO VETERANS

Mr. Editor:

Please give us space for a little sketch in your paper. Memorial day of 1922 has come and gone. We marked every Memorial day to elect officers, pay dues, appoint delegates to the reunions, and transact such other business that may come up.

W. R. Whitaker was chosen delegate to the general reunion at Richmond in June and James Bland to the state reunion in Rome in September.

We only elected two officers for this year, James Bland, commander, and Miss Hattie Powell, lady sponsor for our camp.

We find from our last roll call that five of the old boys who answered "Here" in 1921 have gone to the Great Beyond. W. B. Hart is one. He served in the Western Army under Johnston and the fighting Hood. His war record was good. He was a good man and a good citizen, and left a good record to live after he is gone.

Next was M. Green. He was a good soldier. He served in the Virginia Army under that great and good man, Stonewall Jackson. It is an honor to any old Rebel to have served under Jackson.

Next was Ab Scarborough. I think he was in Longstreet's corps, the Virginia Army.

Next was one named Bowen. We do not know him, as he never joined our camp and we have no record of him. If he was a good soldier, I hope he is at rest in peace today.

Next was W. W. Brannen. He was what we call an adopted soldier. He took the place of his father after his father died. He came every Memorial day and paid his father's dues. He said it was a request of his father for him to keep his dues paid as long as the camp lived, so we got to sending him as a delegate to the reunions and he made a good one. He was able and willing and loved to go.

Now many thanks to the Daughters and Sons and all the good people of Statesboro that remembered us on Memorial day. May the Lord bless each and every one, in our earnest wish.

MISTAKE AS TO DATES FOR SPECIAL MEETINGS

Through a misunderstanding on the part of some one, the Times made the announcement last week that services would begin at three of the Statesboro churches—Baptist, Primitive Baptist and Methodist—simultaneously on the 29th of the present month.

The announcement as to the Baptist and Primitive Baptists was in error, we are informed. The services at the Methodist church will begin on Sunday, May 28th, to continue possibly through the two weeks.

At the Baptist church the services will begin on Sunday, May 21, which is a week in advance of the date previously stated. At the Primitive Baptist church the date will be the same as has been adhered to for years in the past—the first Sunday in June.

Therefore the date, for the beginning will be seen to be one week apart, first at the Baptist, then the Methodist, and lastly at the Primitive Baptist church.

Death of Judge Evans is Cause of Genuine Sorrow

WELL REMEMBERED AND MUCH ESTEEMED BY OLDER CITIZENS OF BULLOCH.

The announcement Monday morning of the sudden death of Judge Beverly D. Evans, at his home in Savannah, the evening before, brought much sorrow to those who knew him. Thirty years ago Judge Evans was solicitor of the superior courts of this circuit, which position he held for eight years. Two years after retirement from that position he was judge of the same courts for seven years. During that time he was intimately in contact with our people, and the remembrance of that association is a pleasant one.

Following the opening of superior court Monday morning a short memorial service in his honor was held by the members of the bar. Addresses of eulogy were made by Judge H. B. Strange, A. M. Deal, Howell Cone and R. Lee Moore of the local bar, and E. K. Overstreet and H. A. Boykin of Savannah.

Strong resolutions in praise of his services as a judge were adopted and signed by every member of the local bar.

The following account of the death of Judge Evans is clipped from the Savannah News of Monday morning:

Judge Beverly Daniel Evans, of the United States court for the Southern district of Georgia, formerly presiding justice of the supreme court of Georgia, died suddenly at his home on Eastlawn and East Broad street Sunday night, at 7:45 o'clock. Death was due to angina pectoris. He was stricken at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Judge Evans, apparently in robust health, attended Sunday-school at the First Baptist church in the morning and taught his Baraca Bible class. He remained at church for the sermon and reached home about 1 o'clock. After eating dinner he retired to his room. About 4:30 o'clock Mrs. Evans was summoned and she found him ill from the heart attack. Two physicians were called in and one of the other remained with him, but they were powerless to save his life. Mrs. Evans and her 12-year-old son, Irwin, were at his bedside when he passed away.

Judge Evans held court in Macon Friday, leaving there that day and arriving in Savannah Friday night. He was in the office in the federal building Saturday and attended to a mass of court business. He had intended to return to Macon this morning to resume the holding of court.

Judge Evans, who took up his residence in Savannah following his appointment to the federal judgeship in 1917, but who had a handsome home at East Broad and Eastlawn avenue about two years ago. He was warmly admired and respected as a neighbor and a citizen.

The predecessor of Judge Evans in the federal judgeship here, Judge W. W. Lambdin, also died from the attack of angina pectoris, while in his chambers in the federal building.

Judge Evans was born at Sandersville, Ga., on May 21, 1865. His father was Beverly D. Evans, a prominent Georgia lawyer, who practiced for many years in Sandersville. His mother was Miss Sallie Smith.

Judge Evans graduated from Mercer University with the degree of bachelor of arts in 1881 and took his degree as master of arts in 1882. He afterwards studied law at Yale University and was admitted to the bar of Georgia in 1884, when only 19 years of age. Before he was 22 years of age he was a member of the Georgia legislature, serving there in 1886 and 1887. He was elected solicitor general of the Middle Georgia Circuit, which office he held from 1890 to 1897. He next was elected judge of the superior court of the same circuit, occupying that bench from 1899 to 1904. In 1904 he was elected justice of the supreme court of Georgia and he was presiding justice of that tribunal from 1907 to 1917.

On August 31, 1917, Judge Evans resigned from the bench of the supreme court to become judge of the United States district court for the southern district of Georgia, to which he had been appointed by President Wilson upon the recommendation of United States Senator T. W. Hardwick. There was no opposition to his appointment.

His first wife was, Miss Bessie Warthen, of Warthen, Ga., who died in 1892. His second wife, who survives him, whom he married in 1894, was Miss Jennie Irwin of Shorter, Ga. Judge Evans was survived by four sons, Thomas Warthen Evans, of Dublin, Ga.; Julian Richard Evans, a merchant, at Sandersville, Ga.; George Reese Evans, now a student at the University of Georgia, and Irwin Lumpkin Evans, 12 years old; and three daughters, George C. A. W., and A. L. Evans, of Sandersville, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, of Marion, N. C. His brothers and two of his sons, Warthen and Julian Evans, who were notified last night, left their homes immediately by automobile and were due to arrive here during the night. The son, George, will arrive tonight.

Another son, Beverly D. Evans, Jr., first lieutenant of Company D, Twentieth Machine Gun Battalion, Seventh Division, U. S. A., was killed near Prey, France, on Nov. 1, 1918, ten days before the armistice that ended the world war was signed. He was 22 years old at the time he was killed.

Judge Evans was never opposed for any elective office for which he was a candidate and claimed the unique distinction of having been elected to the legislature, and the first member thereof born since the War Between the States; the first solicitor general in Georgia born after that office, and the first superior court and supreme court judge born in Georgia after the war when he filled these offices.

COMPROMISE VERDICTS IN JENKINS CASES

YOUNG CHANCE DISCHARGED AND OTHERS ENTER PLEAS TO MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

In superior court Monday, the noted Jenkins county murder case, on trial here for a week, came to an end today when the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter for the three defendants, and a verdict of acquittal for the fourth.

The announcement, Judge Strange proceeded to pronounce the sentence of manslaughter for the three defendants, and a verdict of acquittal for the fourth.

The three defendants, Gary Rowe, three to five years, and Sidney Rowe, six to twelve years. The prisoners were ordered conducted back to jail in Jenkins county and there to the state penitentiary upon expiration of the state prison commission.

The announcement of the compromise came after the court had called the case for trial and the lists of witnesses had been called by each side, and apparently every intention to proceed with the trial. It had been whispered about the court room that a compromise was under contemplation, but the final agreement between the attorneys was not announced until the trial was apparently about to begin.

The defense had announced an unwillingness to try the four defendants, together and the state announced its election to bring Sidney Rowe first to trial. It was at this moment that the counsel for the defense asked for a moment to confer among themselves, and this was followed by the announcement of the compromise.

Roscoe Lewis, who was released under the agreed verdict, was a son of R. H. Chance, who last week was convicted and given a life sentence in the same case; W. R. Lewis was a brother of R. H. Chance, and the Rowe brothers were his nephews.

The crime charged against the four men was the slaying of Watson Allen, a farmer of Jenkins county, at his home near Millen on Christmas day, following a dispute over the closing of Allen's land.

The road ran through Allen's land and he had closed it. The Chances had taken steps to open it by law, and the case was set for hearing on December 28th. On Christmas day, while Allen was at home alone the five men went to his house and killed him. They contended in their defense that it was a case of self-defense, and that they were unarmed, and that one of their number wrested his gun from his hands after he had fired twice, and shot him with his own weapon.

The prosecution proved that the defendants were armed with a rifle, a repeating shotgun and a pistol, and that they were in the road passing the house; that he could not have hit the driver of the car with the same shot; therefore, that the shot in Roscoe Chance's body and the sign, on the car were made by the defendants after the shooting of Allen, and as a studied blind in behalf of the defendants.

Attorneys for R. H. Chance, who is under a sentence of life imprisonment, have given notice of a motion for a new trial.

EVANS SUCCESSOR TO BE REPUBLICAN

G. H. WILLIAMS AMONG THOSE MENTIONED AS POSSIBILITIES FOR THE VACANCY.

Washington, May 8.—The fight for a successor to Judge Beverly D. Evans has already begun, and several telegrams endorsing one lawyer and another were received in Washington today.

The nomination by the president of a judge for the southern district will be made before the end of the additional judge for both Georgia districts provided in the new federal judgeship bill which is now in conference, as the district is congested with work and the department of justice feels that a vacancy in Georgia should not exist for any longer than possible, and yet, it is argued, the best of authority, that Attorney Daugherty will weigh the merits of applicants with a great deal of care and will take no hasty action, even though it become necessary to call for a successor.

It is argued that the United States circuit court of appeal in the States a federal judge for the south Georgia courts for a few weeks.

For the appointment several names are being suggested, among them being Herschel Williams, of Dublin, Ga.; Julian Richard Evans, of Sandersville, Ga.; George Reese Evans, now a student at the University of Georgia, and Irwin Lumpkin Evans, 12 years old; and three daughters, George C. A. W., and A. L. Evans, of Sandersville, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, of Marion, N. C. His brothers and two of his sons, Warthen and Julian Evans, who were notified last night, left their homes immediately by automobile and were due to arrive here during the night. The son, George, will arrive tonight.
